

The process for counselling is:

- A referral is made to Homebuilders for counselling
- An initial assessment is completed by Homebuilders with the client
- Clients will choose a counsellor from Homebuilders approved counsellors
- A referral is made by Homebuilders to the counsellor of choice
- Up to six hours will be paid to the counsellor
- The counsellor may negotiate with the client for additional fees. This will be discussed between the client and the counsellor
- An evaluation is completed after six hours and given to the counsellor and/or to Homebuilders

Homebuilders Counselling Service exists to ensure children and parents have access to appropriate and effective counselling. The purpose of the counselling is:

- To maintain the focus on the safety and well-being of children by offering up to 6 brief intervention sessions per annum (per family) to children 12 years and under
- To provide up to 6 brief intervention sessions per annum (per family) to parent(s) with 12 years and under

The Counselling Service looks for the following outcomes:

- Improved health, welfare and educational outcomes for children, young people and their families
- Improved parenting skills
- Improved family functioning/relationships

Homebuilders provide this service to children, young people and parents across the West Coast.
